

Disciplinary & Grievance Policy & Procedures

We will use this procedure to help and encourage all employees to achieve and maintain standards of conduct, attendance and job performance.

The company rules, given at the start of your employment, and this procedure apply to all employees.

The aim is to ensure consistent and fair treatment for all in the organisation.

A disciplinary process can be stressful for everyone involved. Different people might respond differently to stressful situations. We understand the prospect of disciplinary action might cause distress and affect your mental health.

We will support you throughout to help avoid this happening to you. Please talk to your Director about how we can support your wellbeing, or alternatively we will be able to signpost you to someone who can support you or offer advice.

Principles

We will consider informal action, where appropriate, to resolve problems, and we will not take disciplinary action against you until the case has been fully investigated.

For formal action we will advise you of the nature of the complaint against you and we will give you the opportunity to state your case before any decision is made at a disciplinary meeting.

We will provide you, where appropriate, with written copies of evidence and relevant witness statements before a disciplinary meeting.

You will not be dismissed for a first breach of discipline, except in the case of gross misconduct, when the penalty is dismissal without notice and without payment in lieu of notice.

You have the right to appeal against any disciplinary action.

The procedure may be used at any stage if your alleged misconduct needs this.

Your right to be accompanied

You have a statutory right to be accompanied by a companion where a disciplinary meeting could result in:

- A formal warning.
- Some other disciplinary action.
- Confirmation of a formal warning or other disciplinary action (for example, at an appeal hearing).

The right is to be accompanied by:

- Someone you work with.
- A trade union representative who's certified or trained in acting as a companion.
- An official employed by a trade union.

You should tell us as soon as possible if you would like a companion and who they will be so we can make arrangements in good time.

If you need any reasonable adjustments, for example for a disability, speak with the Director.

The Procedure

First stage of formal procedure – this will normally be either:

- An improvement note for unsatisfactory performance if performance does not meet acceptable standards. This will set out the performance problems, the improvement that is required, the timescale, any help that may be given and the right of appeal. We will advise you that this is the first stage of the formal procedure. We will keep a record of the improvement note for three months, but it will then be considered spent – as long as you achieve and maintain satisfactory performance.

or

- A first warning for misconduct if conduct does not meet acceptable standards. This will be in writing and set out the nature of the misconduct, the change in behaviour required and the right of appeal. The warning will also tell you that a final written warning may be considered if there is no sustained satisfactory improvement or change. We will keep a record of the warning, but it will be disregarded for disciplinary purposes after six months.

Final written warning

We might give you a final written warning if:

- The offence is sufficiently serious.
- There is further misconduct.
- There is failure to improve performance while you are still under a prior warning.

This will confirm the full details of the complaint, the improvement required and the timescale. It will also warn that failure to improve may lead to dismissal (or some other action short of dismissal) and will refer to the right of appeal.

The Director will keep a copy of this written warning but it will be disregarded for disciplinary purposes after six months, as long as you achieve and maintain satisfactory conduct or performance.

Dismissal or other action

If there is still further misconduct or failure to improve performance the final step in the procedure may be dismissal or some other action short of dismissal such as demotion or transfer (as allowed in the contract of employment).

Dismissal decisions can only be taken by the appropriate Director.

You will be provided in writing with the:

- Reasons for dismissal.
- Date your employment will end.
- Confirmation of all final payments you are owed, including holiday pay and notice pay.
- Right of appeal.

If an action short of dismissal has been decided on, you will:

- Receive confirmation of the full details of the complaint.
- Be warned that dismissal could result if there is no satisfactory improvement.
- Be advised of the right to appeal.

Your Director will keep a copy of the written warning but it will be disregarded for disciplinary purposes after six months as long as you achieve and maintain satisfactory conduct or performance.

Gross Misconduct

The following list provides some examples of offences which are normally regarded as gross misconduct:

- Theft or fraud.
- Physical violence.
- Bullying.
- Deliberate and serious damage to property.
- Serious misuse of the organisation's property or name.
- Deliberately accessing internet sites containing pornographic, offensive or obscene material.
- Serious insubordination.
- Discrimination, harassment or victimisation.
- Bringing the organisation into serious disrepute.
- Causing loss, damage or injury through serious negligence.

- A serious breach of health and safety rules, including substance misuse.
- A serious breach of confidence.

We might consider suspending you while carrying out a disciplinary investigation if there's a serious issue or situation. Suspension is when we tell you to temporarily stop working. You would be on full pay throughout any suspension period.

We will consider each situation carefully before deciding to suspend you. Suspension will not be needed for most investigations. Suspension does not mean you have done anything wrong and will not be used to discipline you.

We understand that being suspended might be stressful, so we will:

- Only suspend you if there's no other option.
- Support you throughout the suspension period, always considering your mental health and wellbeing.

Appeals

If you want to appeal against a disciplinary decision you must do so within five working days. The senior manager will hear all appeals and their decision is final. At the appeal any disciplinary penalty imposed will be reviewed.

Grievance Procedure

Dealing with grievances informally – if you have a grievance or complaint about your work or someone you work with, you should start by speaking with your Manager/Director wherever possible. You may be able to agree a solution informally between you.

Formal grievance - if the matter is serious or you wish to raise it formally you should put the grievance in writing to your Manager/Director. You should keep to the facts and avoid language that is insulting or abusive.

If your grievance is against your Manager/Director and you feel unable to approach them, you should raise it with the Designated Safeguarding Lead.

Grievance hearing – your Manager/Director will call you to a meeting, usually within five working days, to discuss your grievance. You have the right to be accompanied by a colleague or trade union representative.

After the meeting your Manager/Director will give you a decision in writing, usually within 24 hours. If the Manager/Director needs more information before making a decision, they will inform you of this and the timescale.

Appeal – if you are unhappy with the decision on your grievance you can raise an appeal. You should tell your Manager/Director.

You will be invited to an appeal meeting, normally within five working days, with a more senior manager (or the owner). You have the right to be accompanied by a colleague or a trade union representative.

After the meeting the Manager (or owner) will give you a decision, usually within 24 hours.

The Appeal Hearing Manager (or owner's) decision is final.

Policy Review

This policy will be reviewed regularly in line with legislative updates, and in any event not less than annually.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'N. Morris', written over a horizontal line.

Nicholas Morris
Director – Productive Learning UK Limited